This handbook sets out the policies, standards, and expectations governing all employees of Onsective Inc. operating in Ontario, Canada. All employees are required to read, understand, and comply with every section contained herein.

1.1 Purpose of Handbook

This Employee Handbook has been prepared by Onsective Inc. to serve as the definitive reference guide for all employment-related policies, procedures, rights, and obligations applicable to employees working within the province of Ontario, Canada. The handbook reflects the Company's commitment to maintaining a professional, lawful, and respectful workplace that complies fully with applicable Ontario legislation, including the Employment Standards Act, 2000 (ESA), the Occupational Health and Safety Act (OHSA), and the Ontario Human Rights Code.

The purpose of this document is threefold: first, to clearly communicate the Company's expectations of every employee; second, to inform employees of their rights and entitlements under both Company policy and Ontario law; and third, to provide a structured framework for managing employment relationships in a fair, transparent, and consistent manner. By setting out clear standards from the outset, the Company seeks to prevent misunderstandings, reduce workplace conflict, and ensure that every member of the Onsective team understands the professional environment they are entering.

This handbook is not intended to replace or supersede any individual employment agreement, offer letter, or written contract that may have been signed between an employee and the Company. Where a specific written agreement exists, its terms will govern, provided they meet or exceed the minimum standards established under the ESA. In all other matters not addressed by an individual agreement, this handbook shall apply. Employees are encouraged to review this document thoroughly and direct any questions or concerns to the HR team at employee@onsective.com.

1.2 Scope of Application

This handbook applies to all individuals employed by Onsective Inc. in the province of Ontario, regardless of employment classification — including full-time, part-time, contract, and intern/co-op employees. Every person who enters into an employment relationship with Onsective Inc. is bound by the policies contained herein from their first day of work, unless a specific provision states otherwise.

Full-Time Employees

All policies and entitlements apply in full from the commencement of employment, subject to the probationary period.

Part-Time Employees

Entitled to pro-rated benefits and all applicable ESA rights. Subject to the same conduct and performance standards.

Contract Workers

Governed by this handbook to the extent applicable under Ontario law. Specific contractual terms may vary.

Interns / Co-ops

Subject to this handbook and any additional terms specified in their co-op or internship agreement.

The scope of this handbook extends to all work conducted on behalf of Onsective Inc., whether performed on-site at the Company's Etobicoke office, remotely from an employee's home, or at any client or third-party location. Employees working outside of Ontario under exceptional circumstances should consult with HR to understand how local legislation may interact with this handbook.

1.3 Binding Nature of Policies

The policies set out in this handbook are binding on all employees of Onsective Inc. and form an integral part of each employee's conditions of employment. By accepting employment with the Company — and by continuing in that employment — each employee acknowledges and agrees to comply with the policies, standards, and procedures described herein. This obligation exists regardless of whether an employee has formally signed an acknowledgment form, though a signed acknowledgment is required and will be collected as part of the onboarding process.

Failure to comply with the policies in this handbook may result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment for cause, depending on the severity of the breach. The Company applies these policies consistently and fairly to all employees at all levels of the organization. No employee, regardless of seniority or role, is exempt from the requirements of this handbook unless specifically noted in a written agreement approved by a Director.

Non-compliance with any policy in this handbook may result in progressive discipline or immediate termination, depending on the nature and severity of the violation.

1.4 Ontario Legal Jurisdiction

All employment relationships at Onsective Inc. are governed exclusively by the laws of the Province of Ontario, Canada. This includes, but is not limited to, the Employment Standards Act, 2000, the Occupational Health and Safety Act, the Ontario Human Rights Code, the Workplace Safety and Insurance Act, and the Labour Relations Act, 1995. Any dispute arising out of or relating to employment at Onsective Inc. shall be resolved in accordance with Ontario law and, where applicable, before the appropriate Ontario tribunal or court.

Employees are advised that the minimum standards prescribed under Ontario legislation cannot be waived or contracted out of, even with the employee's consent. Where any provision of this handbook is found to be inconsistent with a minimum standard under the ESA or another applicable statute, the legislative minimum will prevail. The Company is committed to full compliance with all applicable Ontario employment legislation and will update this handbook as necessary when laws change.

- ① This handbook is governed exclusively by Ontario law. Any perceived conflict between this handbook and Ontario legislation shall be resolved in favour of the applicable statute.

1.5 ESA Compliance Statement

Onsective Inc. is fully committed to compliance with the Employment Standards Act, 2000 (ESA) of Ontario. The ESA sets out the minimum rights and obligations of employers and employees in Ontario, covering matters such as minimum wage, hours of work, overtime, public holidays, vacation, leaves of absence, termination notice, and severance pay. All policies in this handbook are designed to meet or exceed the minimum standards established under the ESA.

Employees who believe that their ESA rights have been violated are encouraged to first raise the matter through the Company's internal complaint resolution process (see Section 10). Employees also have the right to contact the Ontario Ministry of Labour at any time to file a complaint or seek information about their rights. The Company will not retaliate against any employee who exercises their rights under the ESA or who participates in any ESA-related proceeding in good faith.

Minimum Wage

The Company pays all employees at or above the current Ontario minimum wage rate, adjusted as required by law.

Hours & Overtime

Work schedules comply with ESA maximums. Overtime is compensated in accordance with Ontario's overtime pay rules.

Leaves of Absence

All ESA-mandated leaves, including pregnancy, parental, sick, and family responsibility leave, are fully honoured.

1.6 – 1.10 Reserved Rights, Interpretation & Amendments

Company Rights Reserved

Onsective Inc. reserves the right to exercise managerial authority in all matters relating to the operation of its business, including the right to assign work, set hours, establish performance standards, and introduce new policies, provided such rights are exercised in compliance with Ontario law.

Policy Interpretation Authority

Any ambiguity or dispute regarding the interpretation of any policy in this handbook shall be resolved by the Director, whose decision shall be final and binding, subject to applicable Ontario law and any rights of external appeal.

Severability Clause

If any provision of this handbook is found to be unenforceable or contrary to law, that provision shall be severed, and the remainder of the handbook shall continue in full force and effect.

30-Day Amendment Notice

The Company may modify any policy in this handbook by providing employees with a minimum of 30 days' prior written notice via email to their registered Company address.

2.1 – 2.5 Employment Classifications

Onseptive Inc. employs individuals under several distinct classifications, each carrying specific rights, obligations, and benefit entitlements. Understanding your employment classification is important, as it affects your eligibility for certain benefits, leave entitlements, and the applicable terms of your employment relationship. If you are unsure of your classification, contact HR at employee@onseptive.com.

Full-Time

Employees working standard hours (Monday–Friday, 10 AM–6 PM EST). Eligible for full benefits and all ESA entitlements.

Part-Time

Employees working fewer than standard hours. Entitled to pro-rated vacation and applicable ESA benefits based on hours worked.

Contract

Fixed-term employees engaged for a specific project or duration. Terms are governed by the written contract and applicable ESA provisions.

Intern / Co-op

Students placed through an educational institution. Subject to applicable ESA rules for interns and the terms of their placement agreement.

2.6 – 2.8 Probationary Period

All new employees of Onsective Inc. are subject to a probationary period of three (3) months from their start date. The probationary period is a mutual evaluation period during which the Company assesses the employee's performance, conduct, skills, and overall fit with the organization, and the employee has the opportunity to determine whether the role meets their expectations.

During the probationary period, the Company may terminate employment with such notice or pay in lieu as is required under the ESA, which for employees with fewer than three months of service may be limited. Employees should be aware that the probationary period does not remove any ESA rights that have accrued. Upon successful completion of the probationary period, employees will be confirmed in their position and will continue to be subject to this handbook and their employment agreement.

2.9 – 2.10 Employment Agreement & No Guarantee of Permanence

Employment Agreement Supremacy

Where a written employment agreement exists between an employee and Onsective Inc., the terms of that agreement shall govern the employment relationship to the extent they comply with or exceed ESA minimums. In cases of conflict between the agreement and this handbook, the written agreement shall prevail on specific terms addressed therein.

No Guarantee of Permanent Employment

Nothing in this handbook, in any communication from management, or in the ordinary course of employment constitutes a guarantee of continued or permanent employment. Onsective Inc. is an employer operating in a dynamic business environment, and employment may be ended by either party in accordance with the notice provisions of this handbook and applicable Ontario law.

Employees should not interpret length of service, positive performance reviews, or verbal encouragement as a promise of ongoing employment. The Company will always provide appropriate notice or pay in lieu as required under the ESA.

3.1 Office Hours

Monday – Friday | 10:00 AM – 6:00 PM EST

Onsective Inc.'s standard office hours are Monday through Friday, 10:00 AM to 6:00 PM Eastern Standard Time (EST). All employees are expected to be present, available, and actively performing their duties during these core hours unless an alternate arrangement has been expressly approved in writing by their manager. These hours represent the Company's operational window and are designed to ensure consistent client service, effective team collaboration, and operational continuity.

Employees are expected to be ready to work at the start of their shift, meaning they should be at their workstation, logged in to all required systems, and prepared to take on tasks from the moment the workday begins. Arriving at the office or logging in remotely does not constitute readiness if the employee is not actively available for work. The Company recognizes that occasional minor delays may occur but expects employees to communicate promptly and professionally when they will not be available at the expected time.

3.2 – 3.5 Attendance, Punctuality & Reporting

Regular, reliable attendance is a fundamental requirement of employment at Onsective Inc. Consistent attendance ensures that team commitments are met, clients are served effectively, and colleagues are not unfairly burdened by unplanned absences. Employees are expected to maintain an attendance record that reflects their commitment to the organization and their professional responsibilities.

Punctuality Standards

Employees must arrive and be ready to work at 10:00 AM EST. Chronic lateness — defined as arriving late more than twice in any four-week period — will be documented and may result in disciplinary action under the progressive discipline framework.

Late Arrival Reporting

If an employee anticipates arriving late, they must notify their direct manager or team leader before the start of the workday by email or phone. Failure to provide advance notice of a late arrival compounds the attendance issue and may result in additional disciplinary measures.

Absenteeism Monitoring

HR and management track attendance records on an ongoing basis. Patterns of absenteeism — including frequent Mondays or Fridays, absences before or after holidays, or repeated short-duration absences — will be flagged for review and discussion with the employee.

3.6 – 3.10 Departures, Documentation & Review

1 Early Departure Protocol

Employees who need to leave before 6:00 PM EST must obtain approval from their manager in advance. Unplanned early departures due to emergencies must be communicated to the manager as soon as possible on the same day. Repeated unapproved early departures will be treated as a conduct matter under the disciplinary policy.

2 Attendance Documentation

All instances of lateness, early departure, and absence are recorded in the employee's personnel file. These records may be used in performance reviews, disciplinary proceedings, and decisions regarding promotion or continued employment. Employees have the right to review their own attendance records by submitting a written request to HR.

3 Unauthorized Absence & Pattern Review

An absence is considered unauthorized when the employee fails to notify their manager, provides a false explanation, or is absent without any approved leave. Unauthorized absences and pattern absenteeism are subject to formal review, which may result in a written warning, final warning, or termination, depending on the frequency and circumstances.

4.1 – 4.3 Remote Work Eligibility & Authorization

Remote work at Onsective Inc. is a privilege, not a right, and is available only to employees whose roles and responsibilities are compatible with remote performance. Not all positions are eligible for remote work, and eligibility is determined at the sole discretion of management, taking into account the nature of the role, the employee's performance history, their seniority, and the operational needs of the Company at any given time.

Employees who wish to work remotely must submit a formal written request to their manager, who will evaluate the request and provide a decision within a reasonable timeframe. Remote work arrangements will only be implemented upon receipt of written authorization from the employee's manager or a Director. Verbal approvals are not sufficient. Employees who work remotely without written authorization may be subject to disciplinary action, as unauthorized remote work creates liability and operational challenges for the Company.

- ① Remote work requires prior written authorization. Verbal agreements are not recognized. All remote work must be formally approved before it commences.

4.4 – 4.6 Remote Hours, Time Tracking & Monitoring

Employees approved for remote work are subject to the same core availability requirements as in-office employees. Remote employees must be fully available and actively engaged between 10:00 AM and 6:00 PM EST, Monday through Friday. Being logged into a system without actively working is not considered availability. Remote employees must respond to communications within a reasonable timeframe during core hours.

Time Tracking

All remote employees must log their work hours using the Company's approved time tracking system. Accurate logging is mandatory and must reflect actual hours worked. Failure to log time, or logging inaccurate time, is a violation of Company policy and may constitute time theft.

Productivity Monitoring

The Company reserves the right to monitor remote employees through login times, system activity, software usage, and communication logs. This monitoring is conducted to ensure productivity and policy compliance, not to surveil personal activity.

Monitoring Scope

Monitoring may include: login/logout timestamps, application usage duration, internal messaging activity, video meeting attendance, and output tracking. Employees are notified of this monitoring policy upon commencement of remote work.

4.7 – 4.11 Security & Data Protection at Home

Employees working remotely are responsible for maintaining a secure and professional work environment. The obligation to protect Company data, client information, and confidential materials does not diminish when working outside the office — in fact, the security risks are often heightened in home environments, and employees must take all reasonable precautions to mitigate them.

1

Workstation Security

Remote employees must ensure their workstation is physically secure. Screens must be locked when unattended, and Company devices must not be shared with household members, including family.

2

Secure Internet

Only password-protected, private internet connections are permitted for Company work. Unsecured networks and shared networks in multi-tenant buildings without individual encryption are not acceptable.

3

No Public Wi-Fi

The use of public Wi-Fi networks (e.g., cafés, airports, libraries, hotels) for Company work is strictly prohibited. Employees requiring connectivity outside the home must use a Company-approved VPN or mobile data connection.

4

Data Protection

All Company data accessed or processed remotely must be handled with the same level of care and confidentiality as if the employee were in the office. Data must not be stored on personal devices or unapproved cloud platforms.

4.12 – 4.15 Video Meetings, Standards & Remote Audit Rights

Video Meeting Participation

Remote employees are required to participate in all scheduled video meetings with their camera on unless a specific exemption has been granted by their manager. Camera-on participation ensures accountability, facilitates effective communication, and maintains team cohesion across distributed teams.

Background & Professional Standards

Employees appearing on video calls must present a professional background — either a tidy physical environment or an approved virtual background. Inappropriate, distracting, or unprofessional backgrounds reflect poorly on the Company and are not permitted during client-facing or internal meetings.

Remote Audit Rights

The Company reserves the right to conduct periodic audits of remote work compliance. These audits may include a review of time tracking records, system activity logs, meeting attendance records, and output metrics. Employees are expected to cooperate fully with any audit process.

Revocation of Remote Privileges

Remote work authorization may be revoked at any time and without prior notice if the employee is found to be in violation of any remote work policy, if their performance declines, or if the operational needs of the Company require their on-site presence. Revocation of remote work privileges is not a disciplinary measure in itself, but may accompany disciplinary action where appropriate.

5.1 – 5.3 Mandatory Time Logging & Accurate Reporting

Onsective Inc. operates in a results-driven, accountable environment where precise time tracking is a condition of employment for all employees, whether working on-site or remotely. Every employee is required to log their working hours accurately and in real time using the Company's approved time tracking system. Time logs must reflect actual hours worked – not estimated, anticipated, or rounded figures.

Accurate reporting is not merely an administrative requirement; it is a matter of professional integrity. The Company uses time data to manage payroll, allocate resources, assess productivity, invoice clients where applicable, and comply with Ontario employment standards. Any inaccuracy in time reporting, whether deliberate or negligent, can have significant operational and legal consequences. Employees are therefore expected to take their time tracking obligations seriously.

 The prohibition on time manipulation is absolute. Deliberate manipulation of time records – including rounding up, pre-logging hours, or using tools to simulate activity – will be treated as serious misconduct and may result in immediate termination.

5.4 Definition of Time Theft

Time theft is defined as any act by which an employee receives compensation for time that was not genuinely and productively worked on behalf of Onsective Inc. Time theft is considered a serious form of workplace dishonesty and is treated as a significant disciplinary matter, potentially rising to the level of cause for immediate termination. The following behaviours constitute time theft under this policy:

Logging Unworked Hours

Recording hours in the time tracking system for periods during which the employee was not actively performing work duties.

Logging While Inactive

Leaving time tracking running while away from the workstation for extended personal periods, including breaks beyond allotted times.

Personal Work During Paid Hours

Conducting personal business, side projects, or non-Company work during scheduled paid hours.

Double Employment

Working for another employer or on another job simultaneously during scheduled Onsective Inc. working hours without prior written authorization.

Automated Presence Simulation

Using any tool, script, or automated program to simulate active computer use or maintain online status while not actually working.

5.5 – 5.10 Monitoring, Audits & Consequences

The Company maintains comprehensive monitoring and audit capabilities to detect time theft and inaccurate time reporting. Employees should be aware that their system activity, login records, software usage, and communication logs are subject to review at any time. The Company conducts both scheduled and random audits of time records across all employees and departments.

1

Random Audit

Periodic unannounced review of time logs vs. system activity.

2

Investigation

Formal investigation commenced if discrepancies are identified.

3

Disciplinary Action

Written warning, suspension, or termination depending on severity.

4

Immediate Termination

Serious or fraudulent time theft may result in immediate dismissal for cause.

5

Legal Action

The Company reserves the right to pursue civil or criminal remedies for fraudulent time reporting, including recovery of wages paid.

Where permitted by Ontario law, the Company may seek to recover wages paid for hours fraudulently reported. Employees found to have engaged in time theft may also face wage deductions for unearned pay, to the extent such deductions are authorized under the ESA and any applicable employment agreement.

6.1 – 6.2 Annual Paid Leave: 20 Days

20 Days Paid Annual Leave

All eligible full-time employees of Onsective Inc. are entitled to twenty (20) days of paid annual leave per calendar year. This entitlement exceeds the minimum vacation entitlement prescribed under Ontario's Employment Standards Act, 2000, which provides for a minimum of two weeks (ten working days) after one year of employment. The Company's enhanced leave entitlement reflects our commitment to employee well-being, work-life balance, and sustainable long-term performance.

Annual leave accrues at a rate of two (2) days per month of employment. Newly hired employees begin accruing leave from their first month of employment, but leave cannot be taken in advance of accrual unless prior written approval is obtained from the employee's manager. Accrued leave that is unused by the end of a calendar year may be subject to a carry-over cap — employees should confirm the carry-over policy with HR at the start of each year.

Days Annual Leave

Total paid leave days per calendar year for eligible full-time employees.

2

Days Per Month

Leave accrues at two days per month of service throughout the year.

2

Days Advance Notice

Minimum advance notice required when submitting a leave request for planned time off.

6.3 – 6.5 Leave Request Procedure & Emergency Leave

All requests for planned paid leave must be submitted in writing to HR via email at employee@onsective.com, with a copy to the employee's direct manager. Requests must be submitted at least two (2) business days in advance for short-duration leaves (one to three days), and proportionally more notice is expected for extended leave periods. The Company reserves the right to decline or reschedule leave requests where operational requirements cannot accommodate the absence.

In the event of an emergency requiring an unplanned absence, the employee must notify their direct manager as soon as reasonably possible — ideally before the start of the workday, and no later than one hour after the scheduled start time. Emergency leave notifications should be followed by a formal email to employee@onsective.com on the same day. Repeated emergency leave claims that form a pattern will be subject to review and may require documentation.

6.6 – 6.10 Illness, Medical Documentation & Sick Leave

Onsective Inc. acknowledges that illness is an unavoidable aspect of human life and is committed to managing illness-related absences with empathy and fairness. Employees who are unwell and unable to attend work are expected to notify their manager at the earliest opportunity, following the same emergency leave notification process outlined in Section 6.5. The Company does not penalize employees for legitimate illness-related absences.

Illness Leave Policy

Employees may use accrued paid leave to cover illness-related absences. Where paid leave is exhausted, the employee may be entitled to unpaid illness leave in accordance with the ESA. Employees are reminded that the ESA provides for three days of unpaid sick leave per calendar year as a minimum entitlement.

Medical Documentation

For absences exceeding three consecutive working days, the Company may require a medical certificate from a licensed physician confirming the nature of the illness and expected recovery time. The requirement for documentation will be applied consistently and in compliance with the ESA and the Ontario Human Rights Code.

Mental Health Leave

The Company recognizes mental health as equally important as physical health. Employees experiencing mental health challenges are encouraged to speak with their manager or HR in confidence. Mental health leave requests will be treated with the same dignity and procedural fairness as physical illness leave.

Abuse of Sick Leave

Employees who misuse sick leave — for example, by calling in sick when they are well, or by engaging in other employment during a sick day — will be subject to disciplinary action. Such misuse may be treated as time theft or fraud where the evidence supports such a finding.

6.11 – 6.15 Statutory, Bereavement & ESA Leave

Unpaid Leave

In circumstances where an employee requires time off beyond their paid leave entitlement, the Company may grant unpaid leave at its discretion. Requests for unpaid leave must be submitted in writing and approved by the employee's manager. The granting of unpaid leave does not affect the employee's seniority or continuity of employment under the ESA.

Bereavement Leave

Employees who experience the death of an immediate family member are entitled to bereavement leave in accordance with the ESA and Company policy. Immediate family includes spouses, children, parents, siblings, and grandparents. Employees are encouraged to speak with their manager directly in the event of a bereavement.

Statutory Holiday Compliance

Onsective Inc. observes all Ontario public holidays as designated under the ESA. Employees who are required to work on a public holiday will be compensated in accordance with ESA requirements, including premium pay or a substitute holiday, as applicable.

ESA Leave Entitlements

In addition to the above, employees are entitled to all leaves mandated under the ESA, including but not limited to: pregnancy leave, parental leave, family responsibility leave, critical illness leave, domestic or sexual violence leave, and declared emergency leave. These leaves are unpaid unless otherwise specified and are subject to the eligibility and notice requirements under the ESA. Employees seeking information about any ESA leave should contact HR promptly.

7.1 Resignation Notice: 45 Days Required

45 Days Written Notice Required

Employees of Onsective Inc. who choose to voluntarily resign from their position are required to provide the Company with a minimum of forty-five (45) calendar days' written notice prior to their intended last day of work. This notice requirement is substantially longer than the statutory minimum under the ESA and reflects the significant investment the Company makes in each employee's development, the complexity of knowledge transfer in our industry, and the time required to identify and onboard a suitable replacement.

Employees should be aware that this 45-day notice requirement forms part of their conditions of employment. While the ESA establishes minimum notice obligations for employees, the enforceability of extended contractual notice periods depends on the specific language of the employment agreement. Employees are encouraged to review their individual employment contract before resigning and to seek independent legal advice if they have questions about their notice obligations.

 Failure to provide 45 days' written notice may result in the forfeiture of certain benefits where lawful under Ontario law, and may affect the employee's eligibility for certain final settlement items. It will not result in any penalty that is unlawful under the ESA.

7.2 – 7.6 Notice Submission & Transition Requirements

All resignation notices must be submitted in writing via email to employee@onseptive.com, with a copy to the employee's direct manager. Verbal resignations are not accepted as formal notice under this policy. The resignation email must clearly state the employee's name, position, intended last day of work, and a brief statement confirming the employee's intention to resign. The date of the resignation email will be treated as the date on which notice commences.

01

Submit Written Resignation

Email resignation to employee@onseptive.com and direct manager. State last day clearly. Notice period begins from the email date.

02

Manager Acknowledgment

Manager acknowledges receipt within two business days and confirms the last working day and transition plan.

03

Transition Cooperation

Employee is expected to actively assist in transitioning their responsibilities, including training replacements and completing pending work.

04

Knowledge Transfer

A formal knowledge transfer document must be completed by the employee, covering all active projects, client relationships, system access, and ongoing obligations.

05

Exit Interview

An exit interview will be scheduled with HR during the notice period to gather feedback and ensure a respectful and professional departure.

7.7 – 7.10 Final Settlement, Property Return & Exit

Return of Company Property

All Company property — including laptops, phones, access cards, documents, software licences, and any other assets — must be returned to the Company in good working condition by or on the employee's last day of employment. Failure to return Company property may result in deductions from the final paycheck to the extent permitted by Ontario law.

Final Settlement Process

Upon resignation, the Company will process the employee's final pay in accordance with the ESA. Final pay will include all wages earned up to and including the last day of work, accrued vacation pay owing, and any other amounts required by law. Final pay will be issued within the timeframe prescribed by the ESA.

Forfeiture of Benefits

Where an employee fails to provide the required notice period, the Company may, to the extent permitted by Ontario law and the individual employment agreement, withhold certain discretionary benefits or bonuses that were contingent on the employee completing the full notice period. ESA-mandated entitlements (such as accrued vacation pay) will always be paid regardless of notice compliance.

8.1 – 8.2 Termination With & Without Cause

Onsective Inc. may end an employee's employment either with cause or without cause, subject to the requirements of the Employment Standards Act, 2000 and any applicable employment agreement. The distinction between with-cause and without-cause termination is significant, as it determines the employee's entitlement to notice, pay in lieu of notice, and severance pay.

Termination With Cause

The Company may terminate employment without notice or pay in lieu where there is just cause for dismissal. Just cause refers to conduct that is so serious that it fundamentally undermines the employment relationship. Examples include, but are not limited to, fraud, dishonesty, serious insubordination, workplace violence, and deliberate breach of Company policy. The determination of just cause is a high legal threshold and will be assessed carefully in each case.

Termination Without Cause

The Company may end an employee's employment at any time without cause, provided it gives the employee the minimum notice (or pay in lieu) required under the ESA. The amount of notice or pay in lieu depends on the employee's length of service. Employees with five or more years of service may also be entitled to severance pay under the ESA. Without-cause termination does not reflect on the employee's professional character.

8.3 – 8.5 ESA Notice, Pay in Lieu & Immediate Dismissal

All terminations at Onsective Inc. will be conducted in full compliance with the ESA's requirements for notice of termination and severance pay. The ESA provides a minimum schedule for notice based on length of service, ranging from one week for employees with less than one year of service to a maximum of eight weeks for employees with eight or more years. Employees may also be entitled to severance pay of one week per year of service if the ESA's severance threshold is met.

ESA Notice Compliance

The Company will provide working notice or pay in lieu of notice (or a combination of both) consistent with the ESA minimum standards. Where an employment agreement provides for greater notice, the contractual entitlement will apply.

Pay in Lieu

Where the Company elects to provide pay in lieu of working notice, the employee will receive a lump sum or continuation of regular pay covering the notice period. Benefits may continue during the notice period depending on the plan terms.

Immediate Dismissal Grounds

The following conduct may result in immediate termination for cause without notice or pay in lieu: fraud or deliberate financial misconduct; data breach or unauthorized disclosure of confidential information; physical violence or threats in the workplace; severe or repeated misconduct; and solicitation of Company clients for personal or competitive purposes.

9.1 Progressive Discipline: The 3-Warning System

Onsective Inc. believes in addressing performance and conduct issues through a structured, fair, and transparent disciplinary process. The Company's progressive discipline framework is designed to give employees a genuine opportunity to correct their behaviour before more serious action is taken. The system applies to most disciplinary situations; however, the Company reserves the right to bypass one or more steps in cases involving serious misconduct.

The progressive discipline framework is applied consistently, but it is not a rigid formula. The appropriate step will depend on the nature and severity of the conduct issue, the employee's length of service, their prior disciplinary history, and the impact of the behaviour on the workplace. Managers are trained to apply the framework thoughtfully, and HR is available to guide managers through the process. Employees may appeal any disciplinary decision through the complaint resolution process in Section 10.

9.2 Step 1 — Verbal Warning

The first step in the progressive discipline process is the verbal warning. A verbal warning is issued when an employee's conduct or performance falls below the Company's expected standards in a manner that is relatively minor, isolated, or occurring for the first time. The purpose of the verbal warning is to make the employee aware of the issue in a direct, respectful conversation, and to give them the opportunity to correct their behaviour before formal documentation is introduced.

Although a verbal warning is delivered orally by the employee's manager or HR, it is not entirely informal — the Company will document the fact that a verbal warning was given, including the date, the subject of the warning, and the employee's response, in a confidential file note. This internal record serves as evidence that the Company followed a progressive approach if further disciplinary steps become necessary. The employee will be informed that the verbal warning has been recorded but will not necessarily receive a written copy of the internal note at this stage.

- ❑ A verbal warning is the first formal step in the disciplinary process. While delivered orally, it is documented internally and forms part of the employee's disciplinary record. Employees are advised to take verbal warnings seriously.

9.3 Step 2 — Written Warning

A written warning is issued when an employee's conduct or performance has not improved following a verbal warning, or when the initial behaviour is serious enough to warrant a formal written response. The written warning is a significant escalation in the disciplinary process and represents a clear signal to the employee that their continued employment is at risk if the behaviour is not corrected.

The written warning will be delivered in the form of a formal letter or email, signed by the employee's manager and countersigned by an HR representative. The letter will include: a description of the conduct or performance concern; reference to any prior verbal warning; the specific expectations the employee must meet going forward; the timeframe for improvement; and the potential consequences if improvement is not demonstrated. A copy of the written warning will be placed in the employee's personnel file.

 A written warning is a serious disciplinary action. Failure to demonstrate sustained improvement after receiving a written warning may result in a final warning, suspension, or termination. Employees should seek clarification from HR if any aspect of the warning is unclear.

9.4 Step 3 — Final Warning & PIP

The final warning is the last formal step before termination in the progressive discipline framework. It is issued when an employee's conduct or performance has not improved to the required standard following a written warning, or when a sufficiently serious incident occurs that warrants immediate escalation to the final stage. A final warning represents the Company's last formal opportunity to allow the employee to address the issue before the employment relationship is ended.

Final Warning Letter

A formal letter issued by HR and management, clearly outlining the failure to improve, the specific expectations going forward, and an explicit statement that failure to meet those expectations will result in termination of employment.

Possible Suspension

In some cases, the final warning may be accompanied by a short unpaid suspension. Any suspension will be applied in compliance with Ontario law and the ESA's prohibitions on unauthorized wage deductions.

Performance Improvement Plan

A Performance Improvement Plan (PIP) may be issued alongside the final warning. The PIP sets out specific, measurable targets the employee must achieve within a defined timeframe, along with the support the Company will provide to assist the employee in meeting those targets.

9.5 – 9.10 Immediate Termination, Appeals & Review

Immediate Termination Exception

The progressive discipline system does not apply to all situations. Where an employee's conduct is sufficiently serious — for example, fraud, workplace violence, deliberate data breach, or other gross misconduct — the Company may terminate the employment relationship immediately and without prior warning steps. The decision to bypass the progressive discipline process will be made by a Director in consultation with HR, and will be documented thoroughly.

Employee Appeal Rights

Employees who believe that a disciplinary decision was unfair, excessive, or procedurally flawed may appeal through the complaint resolution process described in Section 10. Appeals must be submitted in writing within five business days of receiving the disciplinary decision. The appeal will be reviewed by a manager or Director not involved in the original decision.

Review Period & Final Decision

All disciplinary records are subject to a periodic review. If an employee has had no further disciplinary issues for a period of twelve months following a warning, the prior warning may be considered spent for the purposes of progressive discipline. The final decision in all disciplinary matters rests with the Director, subject to applicable Ontario law.

10.1 – 10.3 The 3-Level Complaint Resolution System

Onsective Inc. is committed to creating a workplace where every employee feels heard, respected, and safe to raise concerns without fear of retaliation. The Company has established a three-level complaint resolution system that provides a clear, structured pathway for employees to raise issues and have them addressed promptly and fairly. All employees are required to follow this process before seeking external remedies, except in cases of imminent safety risk or legal emergency.

10.4 – 10.10 Confidentiality, Investigation & External Rights

Confidential Handling

All complaints will be handled with strict confidentiality. Information about the complaint will only be shared with those individuals who are directly involved in investigating or resolving the matter. Breach of confidentiality by any party to the complaint is a disciplinary matter.

Retaliation Prohibited

The Company strictly prohibits any form of retaliation against an employee who, in good faith, raises a complaint, participates in an investigation, or exercises their rights under this policy or Ontario law. Any act of retaliation will itself be treated as a serious disciplinary matter.

Investigation Timeline

The Company will acknowledge receipt of a formal written complaint within two business days and will complete its investigation within a reasonable timeframe, typically no more than 15 business days, depending on the complexity of the matter.

External Escalation Rights

Nothing in this policy prevents an employee from filing a complaint with the Ontario Ministry of Labour (for ESA complaints), the Human Rights Tribunal of Ontario, or any other applicable regulatory body. Employees have these rights under Ontario law and may exercise them at any time.

11.1 – 11.3 Confidential Information & Trade Secrets

The protection of confidential information is one of the most critical obligations of every Onsective Inc. employee. Confidential information encompasses any information that is not publicly available and that relates to the Company's business operations, clients, technology, strategy, or personnel. This obligation applies during employment and continues indefinitely after the employment relationship ends, regardless of the reason for termination.

"Confidential Information" includes, but is not limited to: client lists and client data; pricing structures and financial information; software code and algorithms; proprietary processes and methodologies; business plans and strategies; employee personal information; and any other information that a reasonable person would understand to be confidential given its nature or the circumstances of its disclosure.

"Trade Secrets" refers to a subset of confidential information that provides the Company with a competitive advantage and that the Company takes reasonable steps to protect. Trade secrets may include proprietary software architectures, AI model training data, unique client engagement methodologies, and other information that derives economic value from not being generally known. The unauthorized disclosure of trade secrets may give rise to civil liability and, in some cases, criminal liability.

11.4 – 11.6 AI Models, Software & Work Product Ownership

All Intellectual Property Belongs to Onsective Inc.

All intellectual property created, developed, conceived, or contributed to by an employee in the course of their employment with Onsective Inc. belongs exclusively to the Company. This assignment of ownership is automatic and does not require any separate agreement or action by the employee. It applies to all work product created during working hours, using Company resources, or in connection with the Company's business — even if the work was performed at home or on personal time, if it relates to the Company's field of business or was developed using Company information.

AI Models

All artificial intelligence models, training datasets, model weights, and related documentation created by employees belong to Onsective Inc. Employees may not use, reproduce, or disclose these models outside of their official duties.

Software

All software code, scripts, applications, databases, and technical documentation written by employees in the course of employment are the exclusive property of Onsective Inc., regardless of where the code was written.

Work Product

All reports, analyses, designs, strategies, client deliverables, and other work product created in connection with the employee's role are Company property. Employees must not retain copies of work product after the termination of employment.

11.7 – 11.10 Post-Employment Duties & Legal Consequences

The obligations of confidentiality and intellectual property protection described in this section do not expire when an employee's employment ends. Former employees remain bound by these obligations indefinitely with respect to information that was confidential at the time of their departure and that has not since entered the public domain through legitimate means. The post-employment confidentiality obligation is enforceable under Ontario law and former employees who breach it may face significant legal consequences.

Breach Consequences

Unauthorized disclosure, use, or misappropriation of confidential information or intellectual property will result in immediate disciplinary action during employment, up to and including termination for cause. Post-employment breaches will be addressed through civil litigation.

Legal Injunction Rights

The Company may seek an injunction from an Ontario court to prevent the continued unauthorized use or disclosure of confidential information. An injunction may be sought on an urgent basis where the threat of harm is immediate.

Damage Recovery

The Company reserves the right to claim monetary damages from any employee or former employee whose breach of confidentiality or IP obligations causes financial harm to the Company. Damages may include lost profits, the cost of remediation, and legal fees.

12.1 – 12.6 Non-Solicitation: Clients & Employees

12-Month Non-Solicitation Period

For a period of twelve (12) months following the termination of their employment with Onsective Inc., for any reason, every employee agrees not to directly or indirectly solicit, entice, or encourage any client, prospective client, or business partner of the Company to terminate or reduce their relationship with Onsective Inc., or to engage the services of a competitor. This restriction applies throughout the Province of Ontario and extends to any geographic market in which the Company actively operates at the time of the employee's departure.

Similarly, for the same 12-month period, former employees may not directly or indirectly solicit, recruit, or encourage any current employee of Onsective Inc. to leave the Company or to accept employment with a competing business. This employee non-solicitation provision protects the Company's investment in its team and prevents former employees from systematically dismantling the workforce.

 The non-solicitation obligations apply for 12 months post-employment throughout Ontario. Indirect solicitation — including through social media, third parties, or referrals — is equally prohibited. Violations may result in legal action including injunctive relief.

12.7 – 12.10 Enforcement, Legal Remedies & Survival

Legal Enforcement

The Company will vigorously enforce its non-solicitation rights through all available legal mechanisms. Where a former employee is found to have solicited clients or employees in violation of this policy, the Company will not hesitate to commence legal proceedings in the Ontario Superior Court of Justice.

Injunctive Relief

Because monetary damages may not be an adequate remedy for a breach of non-solicitation obligations, the Company reserves the right to seek an injunction prohibiting the former employee from continuing the prohibited conduct. The Company may seek an emergency injunction without prior notice to the former employee in urgent circumstances.

Liquidated Damages

Where the parties have agreed to liquidated damages in the individual employment agreement, those provisions will apply. Liquidated damages are a pre-agreed sum intended to compensate the Company for the harm caused by a breach of the non-solicitation restriction.

Survival Clause

The non-solicitation obligations in this section survive the termination of the employment relationship for any reason and remain binding during the 12-month restriction period regardless of how the employment ended, including resignation, without-cause termination, or retirement.

13.1 – 13.5 Disclosure, Competing Employment & Gifts

Every employee of Onsective Inc. has a duty to act in the best interests of the Company at all times. A conflict of interest arises when an employee's personal interests — financial, professional, or otherwise — conflict with, or have the potential to conflict with, the interests of the Company. Even the appearance of a conflict of interest can damage the Company's reputation and erode trust within the organization and with clients. Employees must proactively identify and disclose any actual or potential conflicts of interest.

Disclosure Requirement

Employees must promptly disclose any situation that creates or may create a conflict of interest to their manager or HR. Disclosure should be made in writing. Early disclosure allows the Company to manage the situation appropriately and protects the employee from allegations of improper conduct.

Competing Employment

Employees may not hold employment with or provide services to any business that competes with Onsective Inc. without prior written approval from a Director. Unauthorized competing employment during working hours is a violation of both the time theft policy and the conflict of interest policy.

Gifts & Kickbacks

Employees may not solicit or accept gifts, payments, services, or any other benefit from clients, vendors, or suppliers that could influence, or appear to influence, a business decision. Incidental gifts of nominal value (under $25) may be accepted but must be disclosed. Cash gifts in any amount are strictly prohibited.

Financial Interests

Employees with a financial interest in any entity that does or seeks to do business with Onsective Inc. must disclose that interest immediately. This includes equity ownership, loans, or family connections to a competing or contracting entity.

13.6 – 13.10 Investigation, Consequences & Legal Action

Immediate Reporting Obligation

Upon becoming aware of a situation that may constitute a conflict of interest, the employee must report it to their manager or HR immediately — not at the next convenient opportunity. Delay in reporting a conflict of interest may itself be treated as a violation of this policy.

Investigation Authority

The Company reserves the right to investigate any disclosed or suspected conflict of interest. Investigations will be conducted confidentially and with procedural fairness. The employee will be given an opportunity to respond to any allegations before a decision is made.

Disciplinary Consequences

Where a conflict of interest is found to exist — particularly where the employee failed to disclose it or acted in a manner that placed their personal interests above those of the Company — disciplinary action may follow, up to and including termination for cause.

Director Review & Legal Action

All conflict of interest investigations involving senior employees, or that result in a finding of serious wrongdoing, will be reviewed by the Director. The Company reserves the right to pursue legal action against any employee whose conflict of interest caused financial or reputational harm to the Company, including claims for damages, disgorgement of profits, and recovery of legal costs.

14.1 – 14.5 Passwords, 2FA, Devices & Encryption

Data security is a shared responsibility at Onseptive Inc. The Company operates in a digital environment where the integrity, confidentiality, and availability of data are critical to business continuity and client trust. Every employee — regardless of role — has a personal obligation to follow the Company's data security policies and to take reasonable steps to protect Company and client data from unauthorized access, loss, or disclosure.

Password Policy

All system passwords must be a minimum of 12 characters and include a combination of uppercase letters, lowercase letters, numbers, and special characters. Passwords must be changed every 90 days and must not be reused. Passwords must never be shared with colleagues, managers, or external parties.

Two-Factor Authentication

Two-factor authentication (2FA) is mandatory for all Company systems, email accounts, and cloud platforms. Employees must not disable or circumvent 2FA under any circumstances. Loss of a 2FA device must be reported to IT immediately.

Device Monitoring & Personal Restrictions

Company devices are subject to monitoring and remote management by IT. Personal devices may only be used for Company work if they are enrolled in the Company's mobile device management program and comply with all security requirements.

Encryption

All data stored on Company devices must be encrypted using Company-approved encryption software. Unencrypted storage of sensitive data — including client records, financial information, and personally identifiable information — is strictly prohibited.

14.6 – 14.10 Backups, Cloud, Access Control & Breach Reporting

Data Backup Policy

All critical data must be backed up regularly using Company-approved backup solutions. Employees are responsible for ensuring that work files are saved to designated network drives or cloud platforms. Local-only storage of important data is a security risk and is not permitted as the sole storage method.

Cloud Storage Restrictions

Only Company-approved cloud storage platforms may be used to store or share Company data. Personal cloud accounts (e.g., personal Google Drive, personal Dropbox) are strictly prohibited for Company data. Employees must never transfer Company data to an unapproved platform.

Access Control

Access to Company systems and data is granted on a need-to-know basis. Employees may not access systems or data beyond the scope of their role. Sharing login credentials or granting unauthorized access to systems is a serious policy violation.

Breach Reporting

Any suspected or confirmed data breach – including unauthorized access, loss or theft of a device, accidental disclosure, or phishing compromise – must be reported to IT and HR immediately. Delayed reporting of a breach may compound the harm and may itself constitute a policy violation. The Company will manage all breach notifications in accordance with applicable Ontario and Canadian privacy law.

15.1 – 15.5 OHSA Compliance & Worker Safety Rights

Onsective Inc. is committed to providing and maintaining a safe and healthy work environment for all employees in compliance with Ontario's Occupational Health and Safety Act (OHSA). The Company recognizes that workplace safety is not merely a legal obligation — it is a fundamental expression of respect for the dignity and well-being of every person who works here. Both the Company and every employee share responsibility for maintaining a safe workplace.

Under the OHSA, employees have three fundamental rights: the right to know about workplace hazards; the right to participate in health and safety decisions; and the right to refuse unsafe work. Onsective Inc. fully respects and supports these rights. No employee will be disciplined, penalized, or disadvantaged for exercising their right to refuse unsafe work in good faith.

OHSA Compliance

The Company complies with all requirements of the OHSA and its regulations. Health and safety policies are reviewed regularly and updated as required by law or operational change.

Emergency Procedures

Emergency evacuation routes, assembly points, and emergency contact numbers are posted prominently in the workplace. All employees must familiarize themselves with emergency procedures upon commencement of employment.

Injury Reporting & WSIB

Any workplace injury, illness, or near-miss must be reported to management immediately. The Company complies with WSIB reporting obligations and will support any employee who is injured at work through the WSIB claims process.

15.6 – 15.10 Violence Prevention, Ergonomics & Remote Safety

Violence Prevention

The Company has a zero-tolerance policy for workplace violence and workplace harassment, as defined under the OHSA. Any employee who experiences, witnesses, or has reason to believe that workplace violence or harassment has occurred or is imminent must report it immediately to management or HR. The Company will investigate all reports promptly and take appropriate action.

Ergonomic Safety

Employees are encouraged to set up their workstations ergonomically to prevent repetitive strain injuries, back problems, and other musculoskeletal conditions. The Company will provide ergonomic guidance and, where warranted, ergonomic equipment to employees who request it. Employees experiencing discomfort related to their workstation should report it to their manager without delay.

Remote Safety Responsibility

Employees working remotely are responsible for maintaining a safe home work environment. This includes ensuring adequate lighting, a stable chair and desk, proper electrical safety, and a workspace free from hazards. While the Company cannot directly inspect home offices, employees should report any safety concerns to HR.

Safety Training & Documentation

All employees will receive health and safety training as part of their onboarding, with refresher training conducted annually. Incident documentation — including written reports of all workplace injuries, near-misses, and safety concerns — is maintained by the Company in accordance with OHSA requirements.

16.1 – 16.5 Professional Conduct & Company Representation Online

Social media platforms — including LinkedIn, Twitter/X, Instagram, Facebook, TikTok, YouTube, and any other public or semi-public digital channel — have become an integral part of professional life. Onsective Inc. recognizes the value of social media for networking, professional development, and brand building. At the same time, the Company has a legitimate interest in protecting its reputation, its clients, and its confidential information from harm that can arise from inappropriate social media activity by employees.

→ Professional Conduct Online

Employees must conduct themselves professionally on all social media platforms. Content that is defamatory, discriminatory, harassing, or that brings the Company or its clients into disrepute is prohibited, regardless of whether the account is personal or professional.

→ Company Representation Restrictions

Employees may not post content on social media that purports to represent the official views or position of Onsective Inc. without prior written approval from a Director. Unauthorized statements made on behalf of the Company can create legal liability and reputational harm.

→ Confidential Information

Employees must never post, share, or hint at confidential Company information — including client names, project details, financial results, or strategic plans — on any social media platform. The confidentiality obligations in Section 11 apply fully to social media activity.

→ Media Inquiries

All media inquiries — including questions from journalists, bloggers, podcasters, or other content creators seeking to discuss the Company — must be referred to a Director immediately. Employees must not respond to media inquiries without authorization.

16.6 – 16.10 Personal Opinions, Monitoring & Legal Consequences

Personal Opinion Disclaimer

Where employees post personal opinions on social media that could conceivably be connected to their employment at Onsective Inc., they should include a clear disclaimer stating that the views expressed are their own and do not represent the Company. However, a disclaimer does not insulate an employee from disciplinary action if the content of the post is otherwise harmful, discriminatory, or in violation of Company policy.

Monitoring Rights

The Company reserves the right to monitor publicly available social media content posted by employees where there is a reasonable basis to believe that the content may violate this policy. The Company will not access private accounts without consent or legal authority.

Violations & Legal Consequences

Violations of this social media policy may result in disciplinary action up to and including termination for cause, depending on the nature and severity of the violation. Where social media activity constitutes defamation, disclosure of trade secrets, or another actionable wrong, the Company reserves the right to pursue civil remedies. The obligations of this policy survive the termination of employment and apply to any content posted after an employee's last day of work that relates to their time at Onsective Inc.

17.1 – 17.5 Asset Issuance, Responsibility & Return

Onsective Inc. provides employees with the equipment, tools, and resources necessary to perform their roles effectively. This may include laptop computers, mobile phones, software licences, access cards, office supplies, and any other assets required for the employee's position. All Company property is issued for business use only and remains the exclusive property of Onsective Inc. at all times, regardless of where or how it is used.

01

Asset Issuance

Assets are issued to employees upon commencement of employment or upon a role change requiring additional equipment. A record of all assets issued to each employee is maintained by HR and IT. Employees must sign an acknowledgment of receipt for all issued assets.

02

Asset Responsibility

Employees are responsible for the safekeeping and proper use of all Company assets in their possession. Assets must not be used for personal purposes, lent to third parties, or taken out of the country without prior written approval.

03

Loss Reporting

Any loss, theft, or damage to Company property must be reported to the employee's manager and IT within 24 hours of the employee becoming aware of the incident. Delayed reporting may exacerbate the harm and compound any applicable liability.

04

Damage Liability

Employees who cause damage to Company property through negligence or intentional misuse may be held financially responsible for the cost of repair or replacement, to the extent permitted by Ontario law and the employment agreement.

05

Return Requirement

All Company property must be returned in good working condition on or before the employee's last day of employment. Failure to return assets may result in deductions from final pay or civil recovery proceedings.

17.6 – 17.10 Audits, Unauthorized Use, Theft & Legal Remedies

Inventory Audit

The Company conducts periodic audits of its asset inventory to verify that all issued equipment is accounted for and in good condition. Employees are expected to cooperate fully with all inventory audits and to present their assigned assets upon request.

Unauthorized Use

Using Company property for personal benefit, for the benefit of a third party, or in a manner inconsistent with the employee's role is unauthorized and constitutes a violation of this policy. Unauthorized use of IT assets in particular may also constitute a breach of the data security policy.

Theft Policy

Any employee found to have stolen Company property — or to have enabled or facilitated the theft of Company property — will be subject to immediate termination for cause and may face criminal charges under the Criminal Code of Canada.

Surveillance Rights & Legal Remedies

The Company may use surveillance measures (including CCTV in the workplace, access logs, and system monitoring) to investigate suspected theft or unauthorized use of assets. Where asset theft or damage is confirmed, the Company will pursue all available legal remedies, including civil recovery of the value of the lost or damaged property.

18.1 – 18.5 Protecting Revenue, Clients & Technology

Section 18 establishes the comprehensive legal and operational protections that Onsective Inc. maintains to safeguard its business from harm — whether that harm arises from the actions of current employees, former employees, competitors, or third parties. These protections are essential to the Company's long-term viability and to the security of every employee's livelihood. All employees play a role in upholding these protections through their daily conduct.

Protection of Revenue

Any action by an employee that causes harm to the Company's revenue streams — including unauthorized disclosure of pricing, sabotage of client relationships, or diversion of business opportunities — will be treated as a serious breach of the employment relationship and may give rise to legal liability.

Protection of Clients

Client relationships are among the Company's most valuable assets. Employees must at all times act in the best interests of clients in their dealings on behalf of Onsective Inc. Actions that damage client trust or drive clients away from the Company will be subject to review.

Protection of Reputation

Employees must avoid any conduct — online or offline, during or after employment — that damages the Company's professional reputation. This includes making false or disparaging statements about the Company, its leadership, or its clients.

Protection of Technology

All proprietary technology, including AI models, software, and systems, must be protected from unauthorized access, disclosure, or misuse. The Company will pursue legal action against any person who misappropriates its technology.

18.6 – 18.10 Legal Authority, Indemnification & Survival

Legal Defense Authority

The Company reserves the right to take all necessary legal steps to defend its interests, including commencing litigation, seeking injunctive relief, and pursuing arbitration proceedings where applicable. The Company's legal defense authority extends to any jurisdiction where its interests are threatened.

Ontario Court Jurisdiction

Any legal dispute arising from the employment relationship, or from the provisions of this handbook, shall be subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the courts of the Province of Ontario, unless otherwise required by law. The parties agree to submit to the jurisdiction of the Ontario Superior Court of Justice for the resolution of any such dispute.

Legal Cost Recovery

Where the Company is required to commence legal proceedings to enforce its rights — including rights arising from this handbook, the employment agreement, or applicable law — and where the Company is successful in those proceedings, it will seek an order for costs against the offending party, including solicitor-client costs where warranted.

Indemnification & Survival of Key Clauses

Employees who cause harm to the Company through intentional misconduct, fraud, or reckless disregard for Company policy may be required to indemnify the Company for any resulting losses. The key protections in this section — including confidentiality, IP ownership, non-solicitation, and conflict of interest obligations — survive the termination of the employment relationship.

19.1 – 19.5 Right to Amend & 30-Day Notice

Onsective Inc. operates in a rapidly evolving business and legal environment. Accordingly, the Company reserves the right to amend, update, or replace any provision of this handbook at any time, subject to the notice requirements described in this section. The Company will exercise this right thoughtfully and in good faith, with changes reflecting genuine operational needs, legal developments, or best practices in employment management.

Decision to Amend

Director reviews proposed changes with HR to ensure legal compliance and operational alignment.

Effective Date Reached

Changes take effect on the stated effective date. The updated version of the handbook is distributed to all employees and supersedes the prior version.

1

2

3

4

30-Day Notice Issued

All employees are notified of proposed changes by email to their registered Company address at least 30 calendar days before the changes take effect.

Employees who continue in their employment after the effective date of a handbook amendment are deemed to have accepted the amended terms.

19.6 – 19.10 Version Control, Distribution & Final Authority

Record of Revision & Version Control

The Company maintains a complete record of all amendments to this handbook, including the date of each amendment, the nature of the changes made, and the effective date. Each version of the handbook is assigned a version number and effective date. The current version supersedes all prior versions. Employees should always refer to the most current version, which is available from HR upon request.

Distribution Requirement

Updated versions of this handbook will be distributed to all employees via email within 5 business days of the effective date of any amendment. New employees will receive the current version of the handbook as part of their onboarding package. HR is responsible for ensuring that all employees have access to the current version at all times.

Policy Clarification & Final Authority

Any questions about the interpretation, application, or scope of any provision of this handbook should be directed to HR at employee@onseptive.com. Where a genuine ambiguity exists in the language of this handbook, the Director has the authority to provide a definitive interpretation. The Director's interpretation is final and binding within the internal structure of the Company, subject to applicable Ontario law.

20.1 Receipt Confirmation

By signing the Acknowledgment of Receipt form provided during onboarding, each employee of Onseptive Inc. confirms that they have received a copy of this Employee Handbook, effective March 1, 2026. Receipt of the handbook does not, in itself, constitute agreement with every policy contained herein; however, it does confirm that the employee has been given the opportunity to read, understand, and seek clarification on the Company's expectations before commencing their duties.

The Acknowledgment of Receipt is a formal document and will be retained in the employee's personnel file as evidence that the handbook was delivered. Employees who have not yet received or signed the acknowledgment form should contact HR at employee@onseptive.com as soon as possible. The Company's obligation to provide the handbook is satisfied upon delivery of the document by email or in person; it is the employee's responsibility to read it.

- ① Every employee is required to sign the Acknowledgment of Receipt. This acknowledgment confirms delivery of the handbook and the employee's opportunity to review its contents. Failure to sign does not relieve an employee of their obligation to comply with the handbook.

20.2 Policy Understanding

The signed acknowledgment also confirms that the employee has had a reasonable opportunity to read and understand the policies set out in this handbook. The Company recognizes that this handbook is a lengthy and detailed document and encourages all employees to take the time they need to read it carefully and thoroughly. Employees are strongly encouraged to raise any questions they may have about the meaning or application of any policy before signing the acknowledgment.

HR is available to discuss any aspect of this handbook and to provide clarification on any policy that the employee finds unclear or difficult to understand. Where an employee's first language is not English and they require language assistance, they should advise HR so that appropriate accommodations can be arranged. The Company is committed to ensuring that every employee genuinely understands their rights and obligations under this handbook — not merely that they have been handed a copy of it.

Read Before Signing

Employees must read the entire handbook before signing the acknowledgment. Questions should be raised with HR prior to signing.

Language Assistance

Employees who require assistance understanding the handbook in a different language should advise HR so that appropriate support can be arranged before signing.

HR Available

Email employee@onsective.com with any questions. HR will respond within two business days and can arrange a call or meeting to discuss policy questions.

20.3 – 20.5 Agreement to Comply, Binding Effect & Signature

By signing the Acknowledgment form, each employee of Onsective Inc. expressly agrees to comply with all of the policies, standards, and procedures set out in this handbook, as amended from time to time in accordance with Section 19. This agreement is a condition of continued employment. Employees who refuse to sign the acknowledgment – or who indicate that they do not intend to comply with the handbook's requirements – may have their employment status reviewed.

"I acknowledge that I have received, read, and had the opportunity to ask questions about the Onsective Inc. Employee Handbook, effective March 1, 2026. I agree to comply with the policies contained therein and understand that failure to comply may result in disciplinary action, including termination of employment. I understand that this handbook may be amended from time to time upon 30 days' written notice."

– Employee Acknowledgment Statement (to be signed and returned to HR)

The signed acknowledgment form creates a binding contractual obligation on the employee to comply with the handbook's policies, to the extent that those policies are enforceable under Ontario law. A copy of the signed acknowledgment will be retained in the employee's personnel file. Employees may request a copy of their signed acknowledgment at any time from HR. The Acknowledgment form must be completed and returned to HR no later than the end of the employee's first week of employment.

- ✔ Complete your signed acknowledgment and return it to employee@onsective.com within your first week. Your compliance confirms our shared commitment to a professional, respectful, and lawful workplace.

Your Rights Under Ontario Law

Onsective Inc. operates fully within the framework of Ontario employment law. The following are key statutory rights that every employee holds — rights that cannot be waived by contract or Company policy.

Employment Standards Act, 2000

Sets minimum standards for wages, hours of work, overtime, vacation, public holidays, leaves of absence, termination notice, and severance. Visit ontario.ca/esact for details or contact the Ministry of Labour at 1-800-531-5551.

Ontario Human Rights Code

Prohibits discrimination in employment on the basis of race, ancestry, place of origin, colour, ethnic origin, citizenship, creed, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, age, marital status, family status, or disability. File a complaint at humanrightstribunal.on.ca.

Occupational Health & Safety Act

Gives employees the right to know about workplace hazards, to participate in health and safety decisions, and to refuse unsafe work. Contact the Ministry of Labour Health & Safety Contact Centre at 1-877-202-0008.

Workplace Safety & Insurance Act

Provides no-fault insurance coverage for workplace injuries and occupational diseases. File a WSIB claim at wsib.ca or call 1-800-387-0750.

Glossary of Key Terms

The following definitions apply throughout this handbook to ensure consistent understanding of key terms used in Company policies.

Term	Definition
ESA	The Employment Standards Act, 2000 — Ontario's primary employment legislation setting minimum standards for all employees.
OHSA	The Occupational Health and Safety Act — Ontario legislation governing workplace safety rights and employer obligations.
WSIB	Workplace Safety and Insurance Board — the Ontario body administering compensation for workplace injuries.
Just Cause	Conduct by an employee sufficiently serious to justify immediate termination without notice or pay in lieu.
Pay in Lieu	A lump sum or continuation of pay provided instead of working notice during the termination notice period.
Time Theft	Any act by which an employee receives pay for time not genuinely worked, including fraudulent time logging and automated presence simulation.
Confidential Information	Non-public information relating to the Company's business, clients, technology, or personnel that employees are obligated to protect.
Intellectual Property	All creative and inventive outputs created in the course of employment, including software, AI models, and work product — owned exclusively by Onsective Inc.
Progressive Discipline	A structured disciplinary framework applied in escalating steps: verbal warning, written warning, final warning, and termination.
Non-Solicitation	A post-employment restriction prohibiting a former employee from soliciting the Company's clients or employees for 12 months after departure.

Sections 1–5: Foundation, Employment & Attendance

INTRODUCTION: SCOPE & ESA

PROBATION & STATUS

HOURS, ATTENDANCE & PROMPT

REMOTE WORK & WI-FI

TIME TRACKING & THEFT PENALTIES

The first five sections of this handbook establish the essential foundations of the employment relationship at Onsective Inc. — from the Company's legal jurisdiction and ESA compliance commitment, through employment classifications and probationary periods, to the specific requirements around attendance, remote work, and time tracking integrity. Every employee should be thoroughly familiar with these foundational sections before reviewing the more specialized policies that follow.

Sections 6–10: Leave, Discipline & Resolution

Sections 6 through 10 address the management of the employment lifecycle — from leave entitlements and resignation requirements, through the termination framework and disciplinary process, to the structured pathway for resolving workplace complaints. These sections are particularly important for managers who must apply these policies consistently and fairly, and for employees who want to understand their rights when issues arise.

Sections 11–15: IP, Security & Safety

11. Confidentiality

All employee work owned by Onsective. Data protected post-employment. Legal injunctions possible.

12. Non-Solicitation

12-month period for Ontario. No client or employee poaching allowed. Legal action potential.

13. Conflict of Interest

Disclosure mandatory. Avoid competing work. No forbidden gifts. Regular director review.

14. Data Security

Strict password rules. Mandatory 2FA. No public Wi-Fi or personal clouds. Fast breach reports.

15. Health and Safety

OHSA compliant. Right to refuse unsafe work. Violence prevention. WSIB rules apply.

Sections 11 through 15 establish the protective framework that safeguards the Company's assets, data, and people. The IP and confidentiality provisions protect the Company's competitive advantage. The non-solicitation and conflict of interest policies ensure employee loyalty is undivided during and after employment. The data security and health and safety sections protect both the Company's information systems and the physical and psychological well-being of every employee.

Sections 16–20: Social Media, Property & Acknowledgment

The final five sections of this handbook round out the comprehensive policy framework with provisions governing online conduct, Company asset stewardship, the Company's legal protection mechanisms, the amendment process, and the formal acknowledgment that binds each employee to the handbook's requirements. All employees must read these sections carefully and complete the acknowledgment process within their first week of employment.

Commitment to a Respectful Workplace

Onsective Inc. is more than a collection of policies — it is a community of professionals committed to shared values of integrity, accountability, and mutual respect. The policies in this handbook exist not to restrict employees, but to create the conditions for a workplace where everyone can thrive.

Integrity

We expect every employee to act with honesty and transparency in all professional dealings — with colleagues, clients, and the Company.

Accountability

Every employee is responsible for their own conduct, their work output, and their compliance with Company policies. Accountability is not punitive — it is empowering.

Respect

A respectful workplace means treating every colleague with dignity, listening with empathy, and resolving disagreements professionally and constructively.

Growth

Onsective is committed to the professional development of its people. We invest in our employees' growth because we believe that a stronger team delivers better outcomes for our clients and community.

Frequently Asked Questions

The following FAQs address the most common questions employees raise about the handbook. For questions not answered here, contact HR at employee@onsective.com.

Can I work remotely without telling my manager?

No. Remote work requires prior written authorization from your manager. Working remotely without authorization is a policy violation and may result in disciplinary action. If your circumstances change unexpectedly and you need to work from home, contact your manager as soon as possible to seek same-day approval.

What counts as "time theft"?

Time theft includes logging hours you did not actually work, leaving your time tracker running while away from your desk for personal reasons, working another job during Onsective hours without authorization, and using bots or scripts to simulate active computer use. All of these are serious violations that may result in termination.

Do I have to give 45 days' notice when I resign?

Yes, the Company's policy requires 45 days' written notice. However, the ESA sets out the minimum notice periods that apply as a matter of law. If you have concerns about your notice obligations, review your employment agreement and consider seeking independent legal advice.

What should I do if I witness harassment?

Report it immediately to your Team Leader (Level 1) or, if the Team Leader is involved, directly to manager@onsective.com (Level 2). You may also file a complaint with the Human Rights Tribunal of Ontario. The Company strictly prohibits retaliation against witnesses who report harassment in good faith.

Employee Wellness & Support Resources

Onsective Inc. is committed to the holistic well-being of its employees. Beyond the legal minimums, the Company encourages employees to take care of their mental, physical, and professional health.

The following resources are available to all employees.

Mental Health Support

Employees experiencing mental health challenges are encouraged to speak confidentially with HR. Mental health leave requests are treated with the same dignity as physical illness. Employees are also entitled to three unpaid sick days per year under the ESA, which may be used for mental health purposes.

Work-Life Balance

The Company's generous 20-day annual leave entitlement is designed to ensure employees have adequate rest and recovery time. Employees are encouraged to use their leave throughout the year rather than accumulating it. Managers are expected to support employees in taking their entitled leave.

Harassment & Safety Reporting

Any employee who feels unsafe — physically or psychologically — in the workplace is encouraged to report the situation immediately to HR or management. The Company takes all safety reports seriously and will investigate them promptly and confidentially.

Closing Statement from Onsective Inc.

"This handbook is our commitment to you — a clear, honest, and legally compliant framework for the employment relationship we are entering together. We ask that you hold us to the same standards we hold you to: transparency, fairness, and professionalism at every step."

— Onsective Inc. Leadership

Thank you for joining the Onsective Inc. team. We look forward to building something great together.
